Charge O. S. R. Inmates 'Bought' Favors

QUESTION 500 IN CLEVELAND PAROLE QUIZ

Probers Hear Trusties Given Pay For 'Choice Cells' and Other 'Privileges.'

GLATTKE GIVES REPLY

Points to Commissary Plan, Prices, Denies Trusties Assign Any Cells.

Testimony to the effect that inmates at Mansfield Reformatory paid excessive prices for tobacco and other requirements, bought "special favors" and paid trusties to obtain transfers to honor camps, were reported by the Associated Press to have been uncovered in Cleveland today by state investigators.

The investigators have been working under John C. Butler, assistant Cuyahoga prosecutor, at the request of Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, who is conducting an investigation of the state parole system.

Butler said 543 of 700 former inmates had been heard.

Glattke Makes Denial.

To each of the three charges, however, Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke of the reformatory issued flat den...

The Associated Press quoted a "source close to the inquiry" as saying it had been learned from a former Mansfield inmate that it was no uncommon thing for inmates to pay as high as $1 for a 10-cent bag of tobacco.

Answering that charge, Glattke today pointed out that the Reformatory has a commissary operated for the inmates, and that the commissary prices are as low as and sometimes lower than the prices "outside."

"All inmates know of the existence of the commissary and all have access to it," Glattke said. "It would be foolish for any inmate in the institution since the commissary has been in operation to pay any more than the commissary price."

Glattke established the commissary shortly after he came here a superintendent in 1935, succeeding Thomas C Jenkins, who went to London as superintendent of the prison farm there.

Another charge purported to have been made at the Cleveland investigation, according to the Associated Press, was that:

Infant Born As New Year Bells Ring Leads Race

Although the official decision has not been made in the annual first baby derby, it looks right now as though the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Quaintance, 184 East Second street, would be "the winnah!"

The Quaintance baby timed his entry with a dramatic touch, so that he put up his first squall while the bells of the city were still ringing out the old year and ringing in the new. He was born at four minutes after midnight.

The runner-up—to date—is Jeanette Leah Glasgow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glasgow, 351 West Sixth street, who arrived at 12:45 a. m., or 41 minutes behind the Quaintance baby.

The gifts which Mansfield merchants have ready for the first baby of the year will be presented when it has been definitely established that no other baby in the city arrived before the tentative winner.

Other New Year babies, born on the first day of the year were a son to Mr. and Mrs James Devine, 375 Sherman place, at 8:45 a. m., and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mertz, 9 Flint street, 7:45 a. m.

The stork got ahead of himself on two babies who were born New Year eve. They were both girls, one to Mr and Mrs. Warren Barnes, 316 Purdy street, at 9:45 p. m. Dec. 31, and to Mr. and Mrs. John Wagenhals, 124 John avenue, 11:01 that morning.

Three babies have been born since New Year day. They were all sons, and were born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Donaldson, 590 Garfield place, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Westerfield, 378 East First street, early Sunday morning; and to Mr and Mrs. Elmer Tschappat, 45 Richland avenue, at 2 a. m. today.

Poulson Wins Delay In Ohio 'Graft' Probe

Dem Chairman Appears At Inquiry, Hints He'll Fight Questioning.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A special senate committee investigating allegations of "legal graft" in the state government, conferred briefly today with State Democratic Chairman Francis W. Poulson and then postponed the questioning of him indefinitely.

Poulson indicated that he might challenge the legality of the committee.

Points Out Law.

"There are involved debatable questions of law, questions never decided in Ohio," he said.

"Obviously it has been impossible to prepare the matter, my counsel has been unable to advise me and I have been unable to make up my own mind."

Poulson said he had not been served with the committee's subpoena until Friday.

He had been unable to devote full attention to the matter, he said, because of the serious illness of his mother, Mrs Adelaide V. Poulson, of Cleveland, who is confined to the home of a son-in-law, Francis B. Douglass, of Columbus.

The investigators had subpoenaed Poulson and his bank books, income tax returns and other private records covering the period from Jan 2, 1935, to Dec 1, 1937.

Davey Talks Tonight.

Charles S. Druggan, counsel for Poulson, said some of the records called for in the subpoena were non-existent, but that his client would produce such records as were available.

Meanwhile, Gov. Martin L. Davey planned to face the house of representatives tonight with a speech forecast by Democratic headquarters as "extraordinary" and announced by the governor as calling for an investigation of all state departments and "some senators." The governor telegraphed each senator an invitation to hear the address, which will be broadcast.

A special grand jury investigating the state parole system called former Gov. George White of Marietta before it after a holiday recess. The jury, meeting in Atty. Gen Herbert S. Duffy's office, was expected to question White about a commutation of sentence granted Roy (Happy) Marino shortly before White left office in January, 1935.

PAPER PRICE UP

Newsprint Makers Boost Cost to $50 a Ton.

NEW YORK — Newspapers throughout the country today began paying a sharply increased price for the white paper on which they print their newspapers.

The increase was put into effect as of Jan. 1 by all Canadian and American paper manufacturers, and affects practically every paper in the United States, since these paper mills are virtually the sole source of newsprint supply.

The new price will be $50 a ton, it was announced.

A number of newspapers announced, to offset the increase in the price of white paper, an increase in subscription and advertising rates. Some increased street sale prices from three to five cents. Others announced proportionate increases in weekly subscription rates

And a truly gigantic task confronted the judges, for there were more than a thousand News-Journal readers who submitted answers.

Each night of the contest, which ended Dec. 31, questions appeared in the classified advertising section, concerning advertisements appearing there. Contestants were to answer the questions and send them to "Gift Headquarters."

In addition to the $50 cash awards, 150 theater tickets will be given, good at the Madison and Ohio theaters.

Judging of the entries is expected to take at least a week.

PICK MITCHELL AS BOARD HEAD

County Commissioners Re-elect Chairman; Township, Village Heads Take Posts.

County, municipal and township governments and boards of education in Richland county went about the business today of swearing in new officials and reorganizing for 1938.

Richland county commissioners were first to start their 1938 program, meeting this morning to re-elect C. L. Mitchell chairman of the board and to re-appoint William Miller county dog warden.

Board members also re-named P. S. Carroll as clerk in the commissioners' office for his sixth term. Others of the courthouse staff re-appointed were Anton Moritz, head custodian; Frank Vidmer and Sam Jones, assistant custodians, and Mrs. Tracy Long, matron of the women's rest rooms.

Moritz was voted a $10 increase in salary per month and Jones' pay was raised $5 per month.

Shelby, the county's six incorporated villages, all 18 townships and the city county and township school districts saw more than 20 officials begin their terms Saturday, although most of the groups will not organize until today or later in the month.

Four of the six township villages will be headed by new mayors, while incumbents began new terms in two villages and at Shelby.

100 Job Seekers Besiege New Mayor on First Day

Applicants Crowd Corridors at City Building, Hunter Starts Interviewing Each One Individually.

After "open house" festivities Saturday in which he was greeted by well wishers and party leaders in his flower bedecked office, Mayor Claude M. Hunter today set about the task of interviewing nearly 100 job seekers who besieged the municipal building this morning.

Arriving at the city hall shortly after 8 a. m. today, Hunter was greeted by the applicants for work who crowded into his outer office and filled the corridors.

Takes Applications.

The new mayor started interviewing each applicant individually. When reached by telephone at noon, he said he had already talked to more than 30 and that crowd outside his office didn't seem to dwindle "the least bit."

I am accepting their applications and will take them under consideration," he said. "However, I don't see where the administration can place all of them."

Reporting for his first day as the city's chief executive Saturday, Hunter was greeted by more than 100 friends who visited his office during the morning, among them E. C Kallmerten, chairman of the Richland County Democratic executive committe, who wished

Ace AP Writer Dies of Wounds From Exploding Spanish Shell

ZARAGOZA, Spain—(AP)—Edward J. Neil, jr., Associated Press war correspondent with the Spanish insurgent armies, died yesterday of shrapnel wounds he suffered Friday while reporting the insurgent counter-offensive on the Teruel front

The 37-year-old, white-haired war correspondent failed to rally after blood transfusions, administered at the Red Cross hospital here, 100 miles north of Teruel.

He was the third to die of wounds caused when a 75-millimeter shell struck an automobile in which four correspondents were seated at the village of Caude, five miles from Teruel.

Bradish Johnson, Harvard graduate and correspondent of the magazines "Spur" and "News Week," was killed outright and E. R S. Sheepshanks of Reuters (British news agency), also brought to Zaragoza, died Friday night. Harry Philby of the Times of London was injured slightly.

For a time Sunday Neil had seemed out of danger. He had been given one blood transfusion at Caude before being brought to the hospital here. Other transfusions followed, including one from a Catholic priest who was with the newspaper man when he died.

Specialists who had done their utmost to save him, fellow journalists, and insurgent press department officials were with Neil at his death. He had suffered 34 wounds in his legs and fracture of one leg.

Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco, who had telephoned Zaragoza to inquire of Neil's condition, expressed deep sympathy when informed of his death.

The correspondent, who earlier in his career became known to millions of sports fans for his

7 DIE IN MAJOR TRAGEDY

Ohio Students Killed on Way to Movie; U. S. Deaths For 2 Holidays Near 1,000.

Mansfield and Richland county officers reviewed the New Year's holiday with amazement today, finding only one person injured in holiday traffic and few more than the usual number of week-end arrests on drunk and disorderly charges

The nation's toll in violent deaths, however, mounted to 359, a United Press survey showed which was little more than half the Christmas total of deaths in accidents A final check of fatalities is expected to raise the toll above 1,000 for both holidays, reports said.

Killed at Crossing.

The nation's major tragedy occurred at Butler, Ind., just over the Ohio border, where seven Ohio boys and girls from 14 to 17 years old were killed when a fast New York Central passenger train demolished the automobile in which they were riding.

All residents of Hicksville and Edgerton, O., the victims were enroute to a movie show. Six of the seven were high school pupils.

4 Held For Investigation.

Police made 12 arrests from Friday night through Monday morning, four of them for drunkenness and two for malicious destruction of property.

Although the city's streets were still filled with merry-makers at 4 a. m Saturday, most of the celebrants were well-behaved, authorities said.

Supreme Court OK's Electric Plant Loans.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The supreme court ruled today the government could make loans and grants for publicly-owned electric plants.

Secretary Ickes, the Public Works administrator, said the decision would affect construction of 52 power projects costing $84,026,288 for which his agency had allotted $30,191,944 as loans to be repaid and $21,674,408 as federal grants.

Constitutionality of the government's activity was challenged by the Alabama Power company and the Duke Power company. They sought to enjoin federal financing of projects in four Alabama municipalities and at Buzzard Roost in Greenwood county, South Carolina.

ALABAMA VOTES ON SENATE RACE

State Goes To Polls Tomorrow; Heflin Still Confined.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (AP) — Fiery J. Thomas Heflin was too ill to leave his room today on the eve of his "comeback" attempt to win another seat in the U. S. senate.

The colorful 68-year-old politician—one of the south's last frock-coated, elder-day statesmen—and two other candidates have made pending New Deal legislation an issue in their fight for the seat vacated by Justice Hugo L. Black's elevation to the supreme court.

The other candidates in tomorrow's election are representative Lister Hill (D.-Ala.) of Montgomery, who is seeking "promotion" after 15 years in the lower house, and Charles W. Williams of Wilsonville, a self-styled "dirt farmer" who is a newcomer to the Alabama political scene.

ROOSEVELT SAYS POWER 'MISUSE' MUST BE HALTED

Warns Congress Capitalistic System Might 'Destroy Itself;' Address Calls For Co-operation of Labor and Wealth With Government.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt told congress today that "misuse of the powers of capital" must be ended "or the capitalistic system will destroy itself through its own abuses."

At the same time he called upon both capital and labor to co-operate with the government in working out the welfare of the nation. Both groups, he said, should realize that "power and responsibility go hand in hand."

"Chiefly because of the need of national unity in ending mistakes of the past and meeting the necessities of today we must carry on," Mr. Roosevelt said. "I do not propose to let the people down. I am sure the congress of the United States will not let the people down."

In the message which he delivered personally to a joint session of the house and senate the president disclosed that a balanced budget is out of the picture for the next fiscal year. He said, however, that his budget estimates would show a "further decrease in the deficit."

Refers To Peace Plan.

For international affairs the president projected a policy of peace "in a world where stable civilization is actually threatened." But he declared that in this day of undependable treaty obligations "on the part of others" this nation must be "adequately strong in self defense."

"World peace through international agreements," Mr. Roosevet said, "is most safe in the hands of democratic representative governments — or, in other words, peace is most greatly [illegible] and by those na...

The message, one of the longest of the administration, totaling about 4,000 words, covered the whole field of major legislation for this session, as well as business policies and international affairs.

Wants Wage Bill Revived.

Principally Mr Roosevelt asked for revival of the wage and hour bill, which was shelved by the house during the special session; enactment of the government reorganization bill; final action of the "all-weather" farm bill now pending before a joint house-senate committee; continuation of the "none-shall-starve" relief policy; maintenance of necessary government functions unimpaired; expansion of purchasing power to a point at which taxes will produce adequate government revenue; modification of taxes without reduction of income

Radio chains spread the message across the nation and [illegible]

While he urged the adoption of many business reforms Mr. Roosevelt said there were specific limits to the extent government could go in effecting them. He stressed the necessity of cooperation between capital, labor and government.

Cummings Calls For Probe of 'Inadequate' Anti-Trust Laws

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Attorney-General Cummings recommended today a congressional investigation of what he called the inadequacy of the anti-trust laws.

He made the proposal in his annual report which also revived two features of President Roosevelt's defeated court reorganization bill.

"Obviously," the report said, "the statute (anti-trust law) in its present form is not adequate for the purpose of dealing with the many ramifications of the problem A thorough and comprehensive study is necessary."

Discussing means of eliminating delays in administration of justice, Cummings said it was "highly desirable" that congress provide for an administratice officer to supervise federal courts. He also suggested "serious thought" be given to increased "flexibility" for the courts.

These two proposals recalled the provisions in the Roosevelt court bill for a "Proctor" to supervise the courts and for complete freedom for the chief justice to assign judges to any district to hear especial cases.

While the court fight which split the Democratic majority at the last regular congressional session centered on the proposal to enlarge the supreme court, these provisions also were attacked.

Opponents contended they would "centralize" the courts and allow creation of a "Flying Squadron" of judges who could be assigned to hear cases in which the government was interested.

Cummings made no specific recommendations respecting the anti-trust law. He noted, however, there had been no basic change in the Sherman anti-trust act since its enactment in 1890 and added:

"In the meantime, however, it

Bitter Debate Looms Over 3 Basic Principles of Farm Bill

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Controversy over three basic principles underlying the new farm program today confronted congressional conferees attempting to reconcile differences between the senate and house bills to regulate agriculture.

Estimates on the time that will be required for the conferees to agree ranged from a week and a month. Final enactment of the bill can be delayed as late as Feb 15 without affecting operation of the program this year, it was said

Principles upon which bitter conferences debate is expected in conference committee are

1. The type and division of benefit payments for co-operation in the crop control program.

2. The degree of stringency to be employed in the various control features.

3. The balancing of sectional interests and application of precautions to prevent the mechanics of the program for wheat, corn, tobacco, cotton, and rice adversely affecting other types of farming.

The type of payments provided in the house and senate bills are fundamentally different. The house measure continues the soil conservation payments now available. The senate bill promises payments to achieve parity, a goal which would give the farmers purchasing power in 1938 comparable to the favorable base years of 1909-14.

Both the senate and house measures now contain provisions for scaling down payments to large producers. But a strenuous effort will be made in conference to substitute a new system of distribution devised by Sen. James P. Pope, D., Ida., with the aid of the agriculture department. Under Pope's proposal, $50,000,000 would be earmarked to increase the payments of farmers receiving base allocations of $100 or less.

Neither bill specifies the amount which will be expended under the new farm program. President Roosevelt has told congressional leaders that they must tap new revenue sources if expenditures exceed the $500,000,000 now available under the soil conservation program.

The bills are devised so that benefit payments can be prorated in the event that they amount to more than the appropriation voted by congress.

China's New Government Pledged to 'Finish Fight'

FREE CONVICTS TO INCREASE ARMED FORCES

Chinese Military Leadership Orders New Offensive In Areas Held by Japs.

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)—A new Chinese government, pledged to a finish fight against the Japanese, released all political prisoners today, ordered an intensification of guerrilla warfare and opened an airplane bombing campaign against Japanese-held areas.

One of the first acts of the government, headed now by Dr. H. H. Kung as president of the executive Yuan, or cabinet, and finance minister, was to order reformatories throughout China emptied. Prisoners in these institutions are almost all political prisoners, and the political prisoners in turn are almost all Communists.

Closer Co-operation.

This move marked the close cooperation, in face of the Japanese war, among elements in China who had fought each other for years. Nevertheless, Chinese said, the new government did not mark a turn toward the left but on the contrary was a turn to the right and a victory for more conservative elements.

The principal effect of a change of government by which power was centralized and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, commander in chief of the armies, relinquished the executive Yuan leadership to his brother-in-law, Dr. Kung, would prove a more efficient fight, Chinese asserted.

Chiang, though he gives up the title of what approximates that of prime minister, loses no power. He remains commander in chief of the general staff and chairman of the new national military council which now controls industry and agriculture with dictatorial powers.

The new government ordered an immediate extension of guerrilla warfare, which has caused the Japanese considerable trouble in the north, and appointed Generals Sun Tien-Ying, Chang Ying-Ou and Gen. Kau Shuhsun to lead various armies which will operate solely by guerrilla methods.

Chinese Raid Nanking.

It was announced that the Chinese had opened a new airplane bombing campaign with a raid on Nanking, their own national capital. They bombed Japanese army concentrations, it was said, and destroyed two Japanese war planes at the airdrome.

Japanese yesterday set up "autonomous commissions" of Chinese to rule the newly conquered Nanking and Hangchow areas under their orders.

Japanese announced that a squadron of 30 of their planes had bombed Nanchang, the Chinese base on the railroad extending southward from Nanking to Canton, centering principally on the airdrome. The same planes bombed other airdromes on the railroad to the south as well as concentrations of Chinese troops, it was said.

Her husband, Harris Jackson, was awakened Sunday by her screams. He aroused their four children and ran to the kitchen, where Mrs. Jackson was found to be a human torch.

He carried her outside and beat out the flames with rugs. She died in a hospital later.

FIGHTS RULING

Ford Seeks to Have NLRB Decision Set Aside.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Ford Motor company today filed with the national labor relations board a petition requesting the board to set aside and vacate its decision accusing the company of violating the Wagner labor act and asking that new hearings be opened to ascertain the truth of such charges. The board took the petition under advisement.

NLRB officials said the petition was filed coincidentally in Detroit and Washington. They said that because of this step on the part of Ford attorneys, the NLRB would withhold filing of a petition for enforcement of its decision which, it had been expected, was to be presented before a circuit court of appeals today.

YOUTHFUL GANG HELD AT TOLEDO

Called Selves 'Young Black Legion' Officers Say as They Reveal Crimes.

TOLEDO—(U.P.)—A gang of youths which styled itself the "Young Black Legion" and which authorities believed guilty of numerous sex crimes, burglaries and automobile thefts was brought into juvenile court here today for a preliminary hearing.

The 15-year-old leader of the gang of 15 boys has been held in the county jail since his arrest Saturday. The others, ranging from 10 to 16 years old, have been in custody of their parents.

The assault and robbery of Mrs. Helen Caldwell, 39, mother of two children, led officers to uncover the existence of the gang. Mrs. Caldwell heard one of the boys who assaulted her last Thursday night refer to his brother.

Deputy sheriffs searched the west Toledo neighborhood for homes with young brothers and finally located a 10-year-old boy who admitted he was with his older brother and another boy when the attack occurred.

The three boys implicated 12 others, students in junior and senior high schools. Several of them were said to be from well-to-do families. Their headquarters was a cave in a vacant lot.

NORTHERN OHIO RAIL LINES GO ON AUCTION BLOCK TOMORROW

SANDUSKY — (AP) — The Lake Shore Electric Co., whose orange-colored tractions serve a northern Ohio area between Cleveland and Toledo, goes on the auction block at 11 a. m. tomorrow at the company's barns, a few hundred feet outside Sandusky.

Three hours later, its rail subsidiary, the Sandusky, Fremont and Southern railway, will be auctioned at the county courthouse at Fremont, O.

The road's 400 employes, some of them with the concern most of its 36 years, wondered today if the sale meant the "end of the line" for them—if their jobs were doomed to buses. Only the purchaser will hold the answer, said F. W. Coen, the road's former president and now its receiver.

"Private automobiles have done for the interurbans," remarked gray-haired Bill Ackerman, punching tickets along the Lake Erie shore since 1902. "Those who have autos pick up those who haven't. I don't know what I'm going to do."

The Lake Shore electric operates from Cleveland to Lorain, Vermilion, Ceylon Junction, then swings south to Norwalk and Bellevue, back up to Fremont and Toledo. In receivership four years it will be sold to meet a total mortgage indebtedness of $8,168,000, plus $96,518 in receiver's certificates.

Its rail subsidiary, the Sandusky, Fremont and Southern, forms a direct northern route between Ceylon Junction and Fremont, running through Sandusky and saving Cleveland-Toledo passengers time and distance. Mortgage bonds against it total $847,986 and outstanding receiver certificates, $15,380.

What is the possibility of bus service over the same route?

Coen explained that the state has granted another Lake Shore subsidiary—the recently-formed Lake Shore Coach Lines, Inc.—permission to run buses from Ceylon Junction to Toledo and Sandusky to Toledo. Stock of this subsidiary also goes on sale, as a separate parcel. Its right to a franchise is under attack in the state supreme court.

CENSUS SHOWS STATE'S FOURTH HIGH ON LIST

223,254 Men, 81,428 Women In Count of Unemployed For Buckeye State.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—An unemployed registration of 409,687 persons was shown for Ohio in the national unemployment census taken Nov. 16-20, according to figures released today by John D. Biggers, census administrator.

Adjusted to variation based on a house to house check, which followed the voluntary registration, the Ohio figure would be about 495,000. The "double-check" showed the registration was 72 per cent complete.

Ohio showed 223,254 men and 81,428 women registering as totally unemployed, the adjusted figures being 285,765 men and 104,225 women. In addition, there were 105,185 persons in government emergency work, including WPA, NYA, and CCC. The emergency work total was divided among 92,375 men and 12,810 women.

Recession Adds More.

The Ohio totals, like those of the rest o tfhe nation, did not take into account unemployment occurring with the business decline since Nov. 20, Governor Davey estimated in Washington recently that Ohio had at least 100,000 "new unemployed" because of this recession.

Figures on unemployed by counties and for cities of more than 10,000 population probably will be available in a few days, it was indicated.

There were three states which showed a greater registration than Ohio—New York, 969,000; Pennsylvania, 750,000, and Illinois, 459,000.

HEAVY INDUSTRIES BENEFIT

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—A bureau of labor statistics report showed today that the bulk of indirect or "behind the lines" employment created by public works construction went to heavy industries, some of which have been attacked by the administration recently for alleged monopolistic trends.

With a report by John D. Biggers that 7,822,912 persons filed cards in the voluntary unemployment census, the analysis of public works administration employment is expected to pay a major role in congress' decision whether the jobless should be kept on the present relief set-up, put on the dole or cared for through a revived PWA.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Labor And The New Year

Looking into the extremely foggy New Year, the ordinary business man hardly knows whether to rejoice over or regret the collapse of the peace negotiations between the two warring factions of organized labor—the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. There is no question at all about the completeness of the collapse.

AS 1938 OPENS, the bitterness between the factions—or rather between the leaders—is more intense than it was before they conferred and another twelve months of violent conflict and confusion looms ahead. No one—New Dealer or anti-New Dealer, industrialist or labor leader—will not affect business this year or that the effect will be good. Each side will use every effort to weaken the other. It is to be expected that the A. F. of L. will decline to handle products handled or produced by its rivals, and vice versa. Boycotts such as the one that has tied up Seattle of the A. F. of L. carpenters and teamsters against C. I. O. mill and lumber workers, will increase. Conflicts such as this, Louis Stark, labor expert of the New York Times, asserts have already shut down a number of plants. Many employers caught between the two groups will be badly squeezed, forced to ally themselves with one side or the other, inevitably suffer plant damage and loss of trade.

OF COURSE, as in the last session of congress, the fight will extend into the legislative field during the next session and into the political field during the fall campaign. Of this situation there are two views from the business angle. One is that it is better for business to have labor split. The division nullifies its influence and makes it possible to avert radical and devastating legislation which, with administration support, a united labor group could easily force through. The other view, which seems far sounder, is that the battle increases the confusion of politics and government, handicaps business, piling up delays and increasing uncertainties, contributes to unemployment, adds to the expenses of federal relief, and stands in the way of recovery. The extent to which the New Deal is linked politically with both factions makes it politically inexpedient for its spokesmen to place any responsibility for high prices and the business slump upon their shoulders, but no clear-headed person can doubt for a moment that they have played their part in both.

* * *

IT IS, of course, easier to assail "Big Business," to coin new expressions designed to incite class hatred, to inveigh against the "sixty families," and otherwise becloud the facts with organized with organized buncombe. However, only the more inflamed among the New Dealers argue that any degree of industrial stability can be expected so long as the country is torn by a fierce labor war, which maks it impossible to tell the cost of doing business. Efforts of the administration to promote labor peace have been feebly, chiefly because of the intense anxiety not to offend either side. No better evidence of this could be had than the meek report of Madam Perkins in which she piously hoped for peace but so carefully avoided any expression of opinion that it is still impossible to say whether she approves or disapproves the sit-down strike as a weapon. But then, it is still impossible to say whether the president does either.

* * *

A SHORT TIME ago it was felt that the falling off in dues-paying members in both A. F. of L. and C. I. O., forced economies, curtailed activities, and the strong continuation of what largely has become a personal feud would compel the leaders to get together. Perhaps, they still will, but apparently, they will do so only worse before it gets better. Conceding a loss in revenues, the C. I. O. propagandist insists they can weather the economic storm as strongly as the A. F. of L. asserts that its rival is going down hill and beginning to disintegrate. The new year will put a severe strain upon both, which might be did not involve economic and contemplated more serenely if it political confusion injurious to the people as a whole.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—This town's master of the process of cumulative indignation—better known as the "slow burn"—is Edgar Kennedy.

Kennedy's step-by-step enactment of the emotion of anger in various films probably has covered as much celluloid as several full-length features. In the short subjects, "The Average Man," he has consumed as much as half a reel in the course of burning himself slowly to a violent crisp.

And audiences seem to like it, which is why Average Man Kennedy has been usurping more and more space in the feature world. Seeking him out for a closer scientific study of a slow burner, I found a pleasant, huge fellow who not once showed symptoms of launching into his specialty. And I found history.

"I guess the first time I ever did a slow burn in a picture," he confided, "was right at the beginning. And I was really burned. A new fellow named Chaplin had come out to join the Mack Sennett gang. He had his own ideas about comedy. There was a scene in which I was supposed to give him a kick. I kicked, the gentle, rough-seeming way we have of doing it. But he didn't respond. I kicked again. Still no answer. I was burned. The third time I really kicked—guess I kicked him right out of the scene."

Since 1912, when he gave up odd jobs, including boxing, to be in the movies, Kennedy has been "burning." Ask him if he can name off-hand any movies in which he has not done a delayed roast, and he'll give you right back: "Robin Hood of El Dorado." In that one he played the sheriff—straight. "And what a job! Me, a comic, and not allowed to play for laughs...."

Scientifically, the deferred explosion of temperament is much more than appears on the surface. Most people, for instance, consider the "slow burn" has just begun when Kennedy starts wrapping his fingers around his face and tearing at his baldness. In truth, this stage is near the climax. The actual beginning, nearly always, is a smile. The guy is trying to be pleasant, but the other mugs won't let him. He sometimes attempts another smile, although feebly, before his fingers begin drumming the table. By the time he starts tearing at himself, the burn is well advanced. Peaceable even in exasperation, this average man turns his wrath upon himself.

This laxative is gentle, yet peculiarly effective because it increases the bile flow without shocking the intestinal system.

Girl Misses Friendship Of Mother

By VIRGINIA LEE

I have received a letter from a young girl who signed herself LONESOME. It did not begin like the usual, "have met a nice young man," etc. It stated that I might think it was odd for a girl her age to call herself lonesome. She has a mother whom she loves dearly, but to whom she can tell nothing about herself

To me that is one of life's great tragedies, and it is a tragedy that is all too common. Why are not mothers and daughters better friends? Of course millions are, and yet I have known so many cases where they were miles apart, and when daughter needed advice or sympathy she turned to some outsider.

I don't know whom to feel most sorry for — daughter or mother. Daughter needs a mother's sympathetic and wise guidance And as mother grows older how very much she needs the gay and gallant, and often wise comradeship of the younger woman! She misses so much when she is not the type of woman who wins it.

Mothers too often are shocked at their children's outspoken views. But most young people who think at all are radical. They feel that the oldsters have made a pretty sorry mess of things and that social, religious and moral standards need at least reforming.

Please, mothers, don't be shocked. Or if that is asking too much, don't let it be known that you are shocked. Be up-to-date, know what is going on in the world. Realize that these young people learn by experience, just as you have been doing. You, too, passed through that stage of wanting to shock your elders. It passed, and maybe you have grown too far in the other direction. You are hide-bound and your mind refuses to take on new ideas. That is sad, and a jolt is needed to wake you up.

Try to understand your young folk and sympathize with, understand and love them, and you'll gets so very much out of the association with them. You'll never be that saddest of all people —the neglected mother. Neglected because she could not grow with the world and with her children, and so lost them. Only "duty" brings them to her side

And, Lonesome, dear, try to get closer to your mother Try to give her little confidences, and mabe she will encourage you so that as time goes on you can tell her big ones and you will not be lonesome any more.

My Neighbor Says:

Oxalic acid, if used to remove iron rust on linens, must be neutralized to prevent making holes in the material. It may be neutralized by mixing with a weak solution of ammonia water. Ammonia will remove iodine stains.

Hot food should never be put into the refrigerator, as this raises the whole refrigerator temperature, and may result in the deterioration of other foods. The practice also wastes ice.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

ALL MY mother-in-law's love for her granddaughter, her fear for her and her rancor against Philip Veritzen were mirrored in her face as she repeated her question, "What did he say?"

"He's to telephone again at half past nine," I said, repeating Philip Veritzen's message in parrot fashion. "He will ask 'Is Noel fit to start?' and I am to answer 'Yes' or 'No.' Upon my answer will depend what directions he is to give his son."

She dropped my arm, stepped back a pace and searched my face with her keen old eyes.

"You aren't going to have an attack of conscience, are you?" she queried.

"What do you think?" I countered, smiling.

Her answering smile held a touch of grimness

"If you have the sense you were born with," she said crisply, "you'll figure you might as well be hung for a sheep as for a lamb, and you'll say 'No.' That will mean, I take it, that the old hyena won't ask Noel to start back tonight?"

"That's what he intimated," I said.

What's He Up To.

"Then that's so much to the good," she commented. "But what do you suppose has got into the cold-blooded old devil, anyway? Didn't you say he was relieved today when he found out Noel hadn't started back by plane?"

"'Relieved' is hardly strong enough, Mother," I said smiling. "He was fervently thankful! Rarely have I heard such joy in the exclamation 'Thank God,' which was his first response to my assurance that Noel was not flying back as he had directed."

"It would have served him right," Mother Graham said vindictively, "if Noel had obeyed him and been killed in a plane crash But, of course it's better all around that he has changed his mind But why did he change?"

She did not give me a chance to speak, but answered her own question promptly

Devilish as Ever.

"I suppose at that making a forced landing in a plane, and having it burst into flames a minute or two after you got out, might give you food for thought."

She stopped abruptly

"I don't think Noel will have any trouble with him for a few days," I said "This experience evidently has shocked him, and I do not think he will be unpleasant to Noel.

"Do you mind if I go back to my room and lie down again?" she asked, and I looked at her with quick alarm, but saw that I was needlessly worried She was simply fatigued by the emotional strain

"Of course not," I said "I think I shall lie down myself for a few minutes"

I was sure that I would not do anything of the kind, for I had numberless things which were demanding my attention

"You need a nap," she said with an emphatic nod, and left me on the word Then, mustering all my courage, I went in search of Katie.

I have faced many unpleasant and arduous tasks in my life of much more importance than my present errand to Katie, but I recall few that I have dreaded more.

As I neared the kitchen, my steps grew unconsciously slow, and I would have welcomed almost any interruption which would have postponed the revelation to my faithful housekeeper that she and Jim were to be left alone with my mother-in-law in the farmhouse for the interval between my departure with Mary for the city, and Katherine's arrival with the children from the New Hampshire camp. But no interruption came, and turning another screw on my courage, I entered the kitchen.

I found Katie putting the last touches of icing upon a cake which is one of Mary's favorites, and of which Noel also is fond. She gave me a quick, fleeting glance as I entered, and muttered her invariable greeting when she is absorbed in some particularly difficult culinary task.

"'Scuse, please. I troo here vun, two meenits Den I talk."

Expert Cook.

I sat down in the nearest chair and waited silently—and admiringly—while she finished the task at which she has few equals outside of high-priced pastry chefs When her deft fingers ceased their work she put her head on one side, surveyed her work, and then turned to me.

"How dot look?" she asked with the confident, assured air of a master workman, sure of what he has done.

Paper Plates Approved By Adviser

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Are paper plates and napkins tabu at an evening party? We have no help and after a party there are few hands to do the cleaning up, and I think it would be so much easier to use paper. I don't know whether you are familiar with some of the very pretty paper equipment that can be bought today. The napkins look like linen and the plates are shining and decorated like china plates.

Answer. Since the main objection to having parties of any size in a house that has one maid, or perhaps no maid at all, is the endless amount of dishwashing, to say nothing of an enormous laundry bill, paper plates and napkins, and tablecloths too, are too practical to be tabued. In other words, if your house is a simple one, you can use paper things, certainly. On the other hand, if your house were a formal one and you had many servants, then you shouldn't use paper unless you were giving a real picnic out-of-doors or in a barn or somewhere other than in your own dining room.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is necessary to have a holder at each place in which to put the place card. If it is not necessary to have holders, will you tell me whether cards are stood up against the glass or where Will you also tell me what kind of card is in best taste.

Answer: Place cards are usually flat cards and they are laid on the napkin. In some few very smart houses, which are perfectly appointed, place cards are embossed in silver with a tiny crest, if the family has one, or with a tiny monogram no bigger than a cherry pit. Sometimes the cards themselves are bordered with silver. (A silver border must not be confused with a silver edge, which is not in good taste in the present day. A silver border is like the colored borders that are put around note paper, a little less than an eighth of an inch wide A silver edge, on the other hand, is usually a thick card with a beveled edge and the bevel silvered.)

In most houses, however, an ordinary white card is used Fancy cards often replace the plain ones at special dinners such as these on Thanksgiving or the Fourth of July, or for a birthday party or for children's parties.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, Jan. 4.

Judging by the predominant planetary configurations, this should be a particularly lively day that may bring surprising news regarding new propositions. It may be necessary to travel. Contacts and business should flourish, but be careful with writings. The mind will be attuned to high vibrations

Those whose birthday it is will have a very lively year, with new business, new contracts and sudden changes resulting from hasty news. This may call for a readjustment of the environs and interests Read papers cautiously before signing.

A child born on this day may be an original thinker, with proclivities to explore strange fields of thought and action, probably in realms of science or nature's finer forces It may have a "good business head" and attain success if properly controlled and educated.

When sandpapering surfaces that are to be painted the work is made much easier if the sandpaper is folded over a small block of wood.

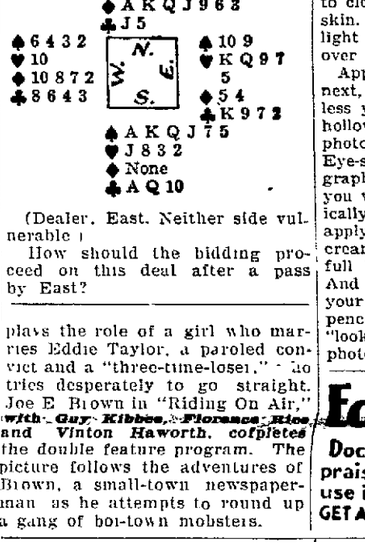
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T ALWAYS DOUBLE

Informative or takeout doubles are fine pieces of machinery to find out what your partner likes best, but there are times when some other course is far preferable. There is always the possibility with an informative double that your partner may like to make a business or penalty pass. If your hand is such that you do not want to play against the opponents' contract no matter what your partner holds, it may be better to call a suit, in rare instances even the opponents' suit.



(Dealer: East North-South vulnerable.)

After two passes, West opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Diamond. North and East passed and South was undecided as to just what action to take. With a passing partner and he himself having previously passed, he feared a bid of a heart might be passed He would normally have doubled with his type of distribution, but there was the possibility that North might have length in diamonds and decide to pass the double for a penalty. South was not anxious for this to happen, as his holdings did not by any means indicate that one diamond could be set.

After due consideration, he decided upon a bid of 2-Diamonds, figuring that it would not be possible for his partner to misinterpret this bid, in view of the original pass. North caught the inference and jumped to 3-Spades, which South took to four

East led a diamond against this contract and declarer had no difficulty in making his game, with the loss of a trick each in spades, hearts and clubs.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer, East. Neither side vulnerable.)

How should the bidding proceed on this deal after a pass by East?

Put Best Face Forard For Pictures

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

USUALLY, when one woman calls another "two-faced," she means it in a decidedly derogatory manner. But at a lecture the other night, a well known physiognomist stated that all women really ARE two-faced. He hastened to explain, however, that he didn't mean to accuse the female sex in general of being deceitful and hypocritical. What he meant was that the right and left sides of any face are greatly dissimilar. The eyes, the nose, the general facial contour and even the hairline on each side differ. And that's a most important matter when one has her photograph taken

Every girl should know something about photography, especially at this time of the year, for women often have their photographs taken around this time so that they may bestow them as Christmas gifts upon close friends.

Before going to the photographer a girl hould study herself carefully in a mirror, in order to find out what her best angle is. It may be profile, it may be full face, or it may be with the head slightly turned. And, of course, the better side is the one she should present to the lens when she has that picture taken

It is a good idea to get a shampoo before being photographed, so that your hair will look soft and shiny and reflect becoming highlights A facial is also a good thing to undergo before, so that all lines and wrinkles are smoothed out and the skin looks soft and velvety.

Light on Lipstick.

As for makeup, always remember that red usually photographs black, so use a light hand with your lipstick, and don't use any rouge at all, for it tends to make gray or blackish shadows on your cheeks.

Before being photographed, cleanse your skin thoroughly with a good cold cream. Then remove the cream and apply an astringent, to close the pores and tone up the skin. After this, spread a very light coating of powder evenly over your entire face.

Apply your lipstick very lightly, next, and don't use any rouge unless you want your cheeks to look hollow. A soft, moist, lipstick photographs most attractively. Eye-shadow, like rouge, photographs black, so omit that unless you wish your eyes to appear tragically dark and hollow. You may apply your mascara or eyelash cream, however, to bring out the full beauty of your fringed orbs And as the final step, touch up your brows neatly with an eyebrow pencil. Then you'll be all set to "look pleasant, please" for your photographer.

Westies In Test

Plant Cagers Tackle Elks and Canzols Meet Oils In Games Tonight.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE Westinghouse Electrics are riding along in second place today, but there's no telling where they may end up after tonight's City Class A basketball menu on the Mansfield high hardwood.

Vern Jones' aggregation faces one of its toughest tests of the season when it clashes with the dangerous Elks club in the feature game at 8:30.

Half Game in Front.

The Westies hold a half-game lead over the third-place Elks, and a defeat would push them out of the runner-up spot. The Elks have a record of a defeat and setback, while the Electrics have chalked up two wins against a defeat.

In tonight's opening tilt, the Ira D. Line's Canzols face the Mack's Pure Oils with both outfits trying to chalk up their first league victory.

For the Westinghouse melee the Elks are expected to use Adam Brandt and Russ Hoff at the forwards, Jim Wallace at center and Gene Brandon and Noel Morgan at the guard posts. In Brandt, Wallace, Hoff and Brandon the team has four sharpshooting artists whom the Westies must stop to win. Hoff, in his last game, slipped in 14 points to set a new season individual record.

Jones' outfit will start with Bob Shade and Raymond Friday at the forwards, Steve Voelker, center and Inwood Smith and Howard Poole at the guards.

Win by Slim Margins.

The Electrics, so far, have failed to click as expected and tonight's game may see them coming to the front. In the two victories they have scored, both have been by slim margins. They edged the Canzols by two points, and had to go into an overtime period to down the Pure Oils. Both teams suffered their defeat at the hans of the league leading Youngs Sports who are idle this week.

The Canzols will have Ed Chatham available against the Pure Oils.

Colorado Governor Bets, Loses Pike's Peak.

DENVER—(AP)—Pike's Peak, 14,109-foot mountain, won by Texas' Gov. James V. Allred from Gov. Teller Ammons Saturday will not be moved.

Ammons said today upon his return from Dallas, where he lost the mountain to Allred when Rice won the Cotton Bowl football game from Colorado, that under a compromise the peak would be left in Colorado, where Texans could come to see it. "Jimmie thought he would have a little trouble moving it," Ammons said, "and I told him it would be all right to leave it in Colorado if he would agree to let people of other states visit it.

Golf, Contract Spurs Betting

Believed Responsible For Gambling Urge.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Jack Doyle, who by a sort of divine right sets the betting odds for every important sports event in the country, says golf and contract bridge have made America the greatest nation of suckers in the world.

Not by because of golf and contract bridge says more money will be put on the outcome of next summer's heavyweight brawl between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling than on any single event in sports history. Mr. Doyle likes to take in a little sport when he talks.

"I haven't got the time," he says, "but somebody could write a book about the growth of gambling in this country in my time. It has [illegible] golf and contract bridge responsible. [illegible] that I'm [illegible]

SHED NO TEARS FOR ALABAMA BOYS

By HENRY McLEMORE

PASADENA, Cal.—(UP)—Shed no tears for Alabama. Because as the Crison Tide rolled back toward Tuscaloose and home today a certified check was folded neatly in the business manager's wallet.

It was a very serious check, too, calling for the payment of nearly $100,000 when shoved through the payoff teller's wicket.

That's a lot of money. It's so much money, in fact, that I don't believe there is a football team in the country that wouldn't take a 13 to 0 licking to get its hands on it. For $100,000 you can heal many a broken heart, tape many a cracked tibia and fibia, and buy much myhrr and horse liniment for the annointing of aching parts.

Alabama must be extremely pleased with the $100,000 check, being as it came as such a thorough surprise. If their was one team in the country, at the start of the 1937 football season, that entertained no Rose Bowl hopes, it was Alabama. Coach Frank Thomas and his assistants didn't believe there was a chance of winning more than half of the major games on the schedule, and would not have been stunned had they lost them all.

So Alabama must be the last to complain if a series of what might be termed bad breaks wrecked its hopes of a Rose Bowl win. Things just started evening up, that's all.

It wasn't hard luck that cost the tide victory and spoiled the southerners' perfect record in the Rose Bowl No. it was hard tackling. The most vicious tackling this observer has seen in years, and certainly the hardest tackling Alabama had seen all year. The Tide coaches admitted that.

Alabama didn't fumble. The ball was knocked from the hands of its players by as terrific "nailing" as you'll see if you watch football for the next ten years. The wonder isn't that little "Herky" Mosley dropped the ball on the three-yard line, but that he didn't split in two like a moleskin atom under the savage thrust of Herwig.

The game ran true to form in one respect. My choice was defeated. You've heard of the "kiss of death." Well, my picking a team to win is the perfect fulfillment of that.

Bowl Win Enhances Waning Prestige of Coast Football

California Turns In Workmanlike Job to Trim Alabama Team at Pasadena; White Displays Skill In Texas.

THE West's return to power in the Rose Bowl, Whizzer White's sensational display of all around skill in the Cotton Bowl, Rice's presentation of a crop of sensational sophomores and banner crowds at Pasadena and New Orleans were the outstanding features of 1938's bowl engagements.

California's methodical mowing down of Alabama undoubtedly enhanced the waning prestige of coast football in inter-sectional combat. Not since 1933, when Southern California slaughtered Pittsburgh, had a western team won by two touchdowns.

Granted the Crimson Tide was not up to the teams of the John Mack Brown or Dixie Howell Eras, the Golden Bears turned in a workmanlike job at Pasadena. As in the regular season the California line out-charger and out-maneuvered its opponents and its backs did a notable job of blocking with Vic Bottari running unhampered to two scores and a 13-0 victory.

Stops Aerial Game.

Chief surprise from the California side was the Bears' work against the Alabama aerials. The 'Bamans completed only four forward passes and the bears intercepted the same number. Stalemated in the air, their favorite zone of attack, the invaders were helpless against their bigger, stronger opponents, when they got in pay dirt.

Whizzer White, the second Rocky Mountain conference player to make the All-America, emerged from Colorado's defeat by Rice in Dallas' Cotton Bowl with new glory. The elusive Whizzer led the drive for the first touchdown and passed for the score, and then ran 53 yards for another score.

It wasn't enough. The sophomores, mainly Ernie Lain and Ollie Cordill, two backs, set the Rice offensive moving and the Owls bounded out four touchdowns and the staggering total of 422 yards gained, overland and in the air. When it ended Rice was on top, 28 to 14, but the scholarly White was the player of the hour.

White combined the talents Messrs. Lain, Cordill and Jack Vestel, the owls' sophomore celebrities, exemplified personally. Lain passed for three of the Rice touchdowns, one of the heavies going to Cordill, and scored another one himself. Vestel kicked all four conversions just as White had kicked both Colorado points.

Draw Biggest Crowds.

New Orleans, where Santa Clara battered Louisiana State 6 to 0, and Pasadena drew the biggest crowds. Over 40,000 saw Santa Clara win in the Sugar Bowl and a record gathering of 90,000 was on hand at Pasadena.

Other bowl attractions did fairly well, bout 37,000 saw the Rice-Colorado Cotton Bowl tilt. The Orange Bowl game, won by Auburn 6 to 0 over Michigan State, drew 19,000 at Miami, Fla. About 12,500 saw West Virginia, lone eastern representative in the post-season games, shade Texas Tech, 7 to 6, at El Paso.

The East-West game, a New Year's day fixture, was a financial if not a technical success. The two all-star teams played a scoreless tie before 59,000 at San Francisco.

Take Three From Fremont to Strengthen Hold on Second Place.

Doug Miller's Oldmobile strengthened their hold on second place in the Northern Ohio Traveling league Sunday when they swept their match with the Fremont Low Price Gas entry at the Meder alleys.

Sonny Meder was again the high man for the Oldsmobiles with a 650 total, which consisted of games of 211, 245 and 194. Earl Robertson and Art Hilborn contributed a 622 and 620, respectively, and Brig Young added a 606. Pasadena Has a Rival Game In Alaska Now.

KING ISLAND, Alaska—(AP) Monday morning quarterbacks were at it today—even in this far North Bering Strait spot which furnished the nation's Ice Bowl football game New year's day. The strong Oogruits defeated the lighter Airgrits, 7 to 6, for the Arctic championship while the island's populace (182) howled along with a snowstorm.

The Eskimo teams pulled no punches, but ran fake reverses, threw laterals and tried place kicks. Father Bernard Hubbard, once athletic director at Loyola in Los Angeles, and now an explorer, said "I never thought it possible for them to play so perfect a game."

HEAD CARD WEDNESDAY

Stratton Meets Hart, Wagner Faces Magyar In Double Wind-up at Armory.

Double main event! That was the announcement of Tim Nolan today in regard to Wednesday's mat program in the Armory. With four of the fastest-coming light heavyweights in the wrestling world already signed for action, the Quality club card has all the cauliflower earmarks of a thriller.

The first of the two scheduled top attractions will pit Walter Stratton, the Leetonia farmer boy, against Frankie Hart of Holland. The second brings Joe Magyar of Hungary into action against George Wagner, German contender. Both bouts will go two out of three falls with a time limit of an hour and a half.

Walter Stratton, born on a farm, arose from "mail order house" weight liter to become one of the strongest of modern light heavies. Headlocks, full-nelsons and bear hugs comprise his forte, and he plans on the varied use of all to bring about a victory over the Hollander.

Like most Hollanders, Hart has had a touch of the sea in his career. He spent much of his youth in fishing boats and the strenuous work has done much to make him an agile and sure worker on the pad. He's a bit faster than Stratton and consequently prefers a wide open match.

George Wagner, who opposes Magyar, defies all the characteristics of Teuton grapplers. Insteady of the stolid, slow-working type, he is a blazer who carries vivid color into the ring. He'll need that and a bit more in confronting Magyar, for the Hungarian is one of the finest athletes ever to make the trip from Europe.

STOCK TRADERS AWAIT MESSAGE OF PRESIDENT

First Market Session of New Year Moves Sluggishly at Opening.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stocks moved sluggishly in today's early market dealings as trading forces awaited delivery of the president's message at the opening of congress.

Reduction in the treasury's buying price for domestically mined silver apparently brought a little selling into stocks of smelting and other companies which might be affected. Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Recovery proponents noted the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that, while general activity in this field continues restricted and buyers are restrained by lack of confidence, certain outlets show indications of fairly heavy tonnages over a large portion of the year.

him "a successful Democratic administration."

There were flowers, too—baskets of roses, chrysanthemums and poinsettias, that carried with them cards of greetings from Postmaster and Mrs. Herman Homberger, Voegle Bros. company, Stuhldreher Floral company, R. H. King and Kafer's Flowers.

First of the 110 persons who "dropped in" to wish the mayor a "happy New Year" was Mrs. Mary Deibler, bookkeeper in the garbage department, who was recently re-appointed by Hunter as stenographer-clerk in the water, sewer and garbage department.

With the exception of Fred E. Lingafelter, newly appointed secretary of the water, sewer and garbage department, all of the new appointees to the major offices were present. They included Service-Safety Director Tracy E. Styert, James Herlihy, superintendent of the waterworks department, Donnell D. Orweiler, new superintendent of streets, and Jacob Rahm, superintendent of parks.

Others present were Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., City Engineer W. C. Statler, Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger, Philip Wolfe, retiring service-safety director, and Arthur C. McMullen, retiring superintendent of the waterworks.

From the courthouse were Walter Underwood, deputy clerk of the board of elections, and C. A. McKinley, deputy clerk of courts, to wish the new mayor success.

The new City Solicitor, Marion D. Ward also was present as were the two new councilmen, Harry M. Emmons and Arthur L. Croak, who officially took their new offices Saturday.

Former Councilman George L. Boiesky stopped in as did James Warrick, a member of the Richland county Republican executive committee, and R. H. King, head of an insurance agency, and scores of others.

All guests were treated with either cigars or candy.

SHELL WOUNDS KILL AP WRITER

Edward J. Neil Third Spanish War Correspondent to Die From Exploding Missile.

vivid accounts of sports events, had covered the Ethiopian war and, since May, Spanish insurgent battlefronts.

With the other three correspondents he had gone to Caude for a first-hand view of the insurgent offensive which resulted in recapture of Teruel in the greatest battle of the Spanish civil conflict.

Two days before he was injured, Neil had cabled what was to be his last story, telling of successful defense of the Teruel seminary by a garrison of beleaguered insurgents. He had told how "foreign newspaper men circulating freely" on the insurgent front saw warplanes assault the government lines.

He had seen the conflict in many parts of Spain. In June, on the night of the fall of Bilbao, he scored a beat of two hours by sending his story from a cable station which then was under fire. Bullets struck a wall a few inches from his head, and he remarked: "The story has gone! If I'm going I would rather go with the story on the wire than unwritten."

While in Zaragoza hospital, before there was any indication of how seriously he was wounded, Neil said: "Well, I guess the war is over for me."

CUMMINGS ASKS TRUST LAW QUIZ

Attorney General Says Set-Up Now 'Inadequate,' Seeks Revision.

has undergone many modifications by judicial interpretation. During the 47 years that the statute has been in effect our economic and social structure has undergone a vast change.

"Though aimed at the suppression of monopolies and restraints of trade, efforts to enforce the law have been only partially successful."

Cummings did not go into details of inadequacies he said exist in the present law. He presented with his report, however, one from Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, in charge of anti-trust prosecutions, which criticized court interpretations of the present statute.

Jackson in recent weeks has accused big business of contributing to the present business recession by monopolistic practices.

The attorney general recommended also congressional action to expedite administration of justice in the federal courts, asserting delays were due to insufficient personnel, a tolerance of technicalities and a lack of efficient administrative methods.

PICK MITCHELL AS BOARD HEAD

Butler; C. D. Nelson, Shiloh; Thomas R. Zeigler, Bellville, and L. M. Smith, Lucas.

Mayor D. Bruce Young at Shelby; O. G. Misamore, Lexington, and J. T. Gaskell, Plymouth, all re-elected in November, started new terms.

C. G. Tugend of Worthington township and Floyd Hunt of Lucas, elected to the county board of education in November, began their four-year terms. Retiring from office were A. W. Lantz of Perry township who served on the board for more than 18 years, and W. C. Garber, of Bellville, who served one term of four years. The board will organize Jan. 15.

With three members re-elected in November, the personnel of the Mansfield board of education will be unchanged when the board meets to re-oragnize at 8 p. m. today.

Harold W. Arlin, president of the board; Alvin H. Fankhauser and Dr. John S. Hattery will begin new terms, along with W. C. Mead and Harold Bruce, who have two more years to serve.

The board will elect officers, set a meeting date and employ a clerk and superintendent of buildings at tonight's session.

Both Dr. J. H. Bristor, clerk, and J. B. Moke, superintendent of buildings, are candidates for reappointment.

Membership of the Madison township board of trustees was left intact with the decision of C. M. Chatlain to serve after he announced preceding election that he would not be a candidate. Despite his announcement, Chatlain was re-elected by a big majority.

Others who were returned to office were J. W. Selby and W. M. Beam and Fred J. Stahlbheber, clerk.

CITY SUES TO ACQUIRE TITLE TO FARM LAND

Contends Owner of Property on Which Well Is Located Failed to Keep Word.

The city of Mansfield today had brought action in common pleas court against Carl Brumenshenkel and his wife, Linda, of near Lexington to acquire title to 10 acres of land on which one of the city's water supply wells is located.

Filed by City Solicitor H. H. Schettler before his retirement from office Saturday, the petition contends that the defendants have failed to comply with the terms of a contract drawn up in October, 1936, which calls for transfer of the property to the city.

The agreement, which was signed by both defendants, granted the city a perpetual easement for the construction of a power line and a driveway on the parcel of land near Lexington and the right to purchase the 10-acre plat for $2,000, the city's petition states.

City To Furnish Water.

Included in the city's agreement was the furnishing of 50,000 gallons of water free annually to the defendants from the well and the granting of the right to use the land surrounding the well for farming purposes so far as it is possible.

It is further charged that despite their acceptance of terms of the agreement and a $20 advance payment toward purchase of the land, the defendants have failed and refused to convey title to the city.

The action seeks a court decree ordering the defendants to perform their agreement and surrender the property, free of incumbrances, to the city.

The defendants, the petition states, agreed verbally last June to obtain a partial release of the land from the Federal Land Bank of Louisville which holds a mortgage on the property, so that title could be conveyed to the city. The $20 payment accepted by the defendants allegedly was used as a fee to accompany the application for release filed with the mortgage holder.

Transfer of the title will complete the city's acquisition of property for the municipal water supply program. Three test wells were drilled on the land, the last in March, 1937, and a permanent well was drilled last May.

ROOSEVELT HITS POWER 'ABUSE' BY U. S. CAPITAL

Tells Congress Capitlaistic System Might Be Destroyed; Asks Co-operation.

said, "but no government can conscript co-operation. We have improved some matters by way of remedial legislation. But where in some particulars that legislation has failed we cannot be sure whether it fails because some of its details are unwise or because it is being sabotaged.

"At any rate we hold our objectives and our principles to be sound. We will never go back on them."

Hits Business Practices.

Business practices which the president said "most people" believe should be ended he listed as: tax avoidance through corporate and other methods; excessive capitalization, investment write-ups and security manipulations; price-rigging and collusive bidding in defiance of the spirit of the anti-trust laws by methods which "baffle prosecution under the present statutes."

Placed in the same category were "high pressure salesmanship which creates cycles of over-production within given industries and consequent recessions in production until such time as the surplus is consumed;" use of patent laws to enable larger corporations to maintain high wages; unfair competition to the detriment of the small producer; intimidation of local, or state governments to prevent enactment of laws for the protection of labor "by threatening to move elsewhere, and the shifting of actual production from one locality to another in pursuit of the cheapest wage scale."

"The enumeration of these abuses," Mr Roosevelt said, "does not mean that business as a whole is guilty of them. Again, it is deception that will not long deceive to tell the country that an attack on these abuses is an attack on business."

He asked businessmen and financiers to recognize what he called a "new moral climate" in the nation and themselves to cure such inequalities as they can without legislation while joining the government in enacting legislation to end others.

"The nation," he continued, "has no obligation to make America safe for incompetent business men or for business men who fail to note the trend of the times and continue the use of machinery of economics and practices of finance as outworn as the cotton spindle of 1870."

MERCURY SKIDS

Falls to 16 Above Zero In New Cold Snap; Rain Due Tuesday.

The cold snap which arrived with the new year and dropped the mercury to 16 degrees above zero this morning is due to end tonight, with rain to follow on Tuesday, the forecast said today.

Dripping skies poured .37 of an inch of rain on the city New Year Eve as celebrants splashed about in miniature lakes in the streets. Clearing weather by morning, however, brought a sharp drop in temperature to 29 degrees.

CITY GREETS 1938 QUIETLY

One Injured, Arrests Number Only Few More Than Usual; U. S. Death Toll 359.

but the city's night clubs and restaurants, unrestricted as to closing hours, enjoyed capacity business.

Large, but not capacity crowds saw midnight shows at the city's theaters, and parties and balls at the hotels and clubs drew hundreds of other merry-makers.

Liquor store managers said business was good but no better than last year. More liquors were sold Friday, they said, than during the entire holiday weekend at any other time in the year. State stores were closed Saturday and Sunday.

The lone victim of traffic accidents reported in the city and county was Dick Palmer, 12, of 168 McPherson street who suffered a fractured left leg and scalp wounds Friday when he rode his bicycle into a car driven by Al Friddell, of 161 West Fifth street. The accident occurred at Springmill and Bowman streets.

Young Palmer was treated at General hospital and removed to his home.

38 Dead in Ohio.

Ohio's holiday death toll reached 38, including 24 in traffic mishaps. Five Cleveland men died after drinking anti-freeze solution for automobile radiators, police reported.

Three Ohioans were victims of burns, three were shot to death and two killed themselves.

In the tragedy at Butler, Ind., five boys and two girls died instantly when the sedan which carried them through grade crossing gates was thrown 500 feet by a speeding locomotive.

The watchman at the crossing said the car was driven onto the tracks when the driver apparently was blinded by fog or steam on the windshield.

The dead were Marvin Miller, 14, Lowell Blythe, 16, Merle Sarver, 16; Jacob Strauffer, 17; and Richard Staupe, 16, all of Edgerton, O., and Marjorie Roan, 15, and her niece, Gwendolyn, 15, both of Hicksville. Most of the boys were members of the Edgerton [illegible] basketball squad.

Miss Betty Gruver, of Butler, another member of the party, escaped death by a few minutes. She had left the car two blocks from the crossing to go to her home.

Locomotive Disabled.

Eastbound from Chicago to New York, the Mohawk, fast train which struck the pupils' automobile, was delayed an hour because of damage to the locomotive. Another engine was brought from Toledo.

In other Ohio accidents, Raymon Yeager, 14, winner of the All-American Soap Box derby at Akron in 1936, was drowned in a pond near his home at Olmstead Falls when he broke through the ice while skating. State Highway Patrolman Charles G. Cannon, 25 of Columbus was fatally injured when his motorcycle struck a dog near Xenia.

Death spread into other sections of the nation, with 56 dead in Illinois, 39 in Pennsylvania and 31 in New York state.

At least 12 persons were dead in New England as a result of the worst blizzard in that section in two years.

Highlights of President's Address Before Congress

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Highlights of President Roosevelt's message to congress:

I do not propose to let the people down. I am sure the congress of the United States will not let the people down.

We have improved some matters by way of remedial legislation. But where in some particulars that legislation has failed we can not be sure whether it fails because some of its details are unwise or because it is being sabotaged. At any rate, we hold our objectives and our principles to be sound. We will never go back on them.

* * *

Government can be expected to co-operate in every way with the business of the nation provided the component parts of business abandon practices which do not belong to this day and age, and adopt price and production policies appropriate to the times.

* * *

If attention is called to, or attack made on, certain wrongful business practices, there are those who are eager to call it "an attack on all business." That . . . is wilful deception that will not long deceive.

* * *

In regard to taxes' . . . our conclusion must be that while proven hardships should be corrected, they should not be corrected in such a way as to restore abuses already terminated or to shift at greater burden to the less fortunate.

The proposed budget for 1939 (the fiscal year beginning next July 1), which I shall shortly send to the congress, will exhibit a further decrease in the deficit though not an actual balance between income and outgo.

I am as anxious as any banker, or industrialist, or business man, or investor, or economist that the budget of the United States government be brought into balance as quickly as possible.

Wage and hour legislation . . . is a problem which is definitely before this congress for action. It is an essential part of economic recovery. It has the support of an overwhelming majority of our people in every walk of life. They have expressed themselves through the ballot box.

I am [illegible] can tell you our nation is at peace. It has been kept at peace despite provocations which in other days, because of their seriousness could well have engendered war.

HOLD INMATES 'BOUGHT' FAVORS

Ex-Convicts Tell Probers Trusties Give Pay For 'Choice Cells.'

er can buy a 'good' cell. A dollar or two more will replace a worn-out mattress with a new one."

Glattke, asserting that no trusty has anything to do with where new prisoners are lodged, said "The cell assignment officer is a man whom I trust implicitly and whose integrity is beyond question."

The Cleveland inquiry also purported to develop charges that inmates with bad records had been able to obtain transfers to prison farms, by payment of sums of money to trusties employed in the record department. One former inmate said he obtained a transfer for $2.

"The record department, like the assignment office is in charge of a trusted officer of the institution," Glattke commented. "Trusties do work in the department but they could not possibly arrange for a transfer. Of course, it would be possible for a trusty to obtain advance information concerning the transfer of another inmate, and attempt to prevail on that inmate to pay him money under the pretext that he could 'fix' something.

Unfair Practice.

"But that could not be laid at the door of the institution. That would simply be a bit of shrip dealing by one inmate at another's expense. The same thing could happen outside, if a person took unfair advantage of advance information," he added.

Cleveland dispatches said none of the witnesses questioned there to date had admitted paying anything for a parole.

Investigators said the period covered by the testimony of the inmates covered several years possibly as many as eight or 10. They pointed out that all witnesses are still on parole.

TURNED OVER TO WOOSTER POLICE

Trio Captured in City Wanted on Fraud Charge.

Two men and a woman taken into custody by police here yesterday were turned over to Wayne county authorities on warrants charging them with defrauding an employer in Wooster.

The trio who gave the names of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Grimes and William Ferguson, all of Toledo, were apprehended by Patrolman Chester Kyler on Portsmouth street on the description given by the state highway patrol.

Police said they found an automatic rifle and two revolvers which were turned over to the Wayne county deputies. The weapons were taken from their automobile.

73 DIVORCED

Of the divorces issued, 53 were awarded to wives and 20 were granted to complaining husbands; one marriage was annulled in the past year. For the same period in 1936 there were 82 divorces issued, 63 to wives and 19 to husbands.

DIES IN FALL FROM WINDOW

New York Authorities Hold Inquest Into Death of Former Mansfielder.

An inquest was being held today by New York authorities into the death of John C. Ditwiler, 51, former Mansfield clothier, who jumped or fell to his death Saturday afternoon from a window of his room on the 18th floor of Hotel New Yorker in New York City, United Press dispatches said. His body landed on a setback on the fifth floor.

Mr. Ditwiler registered at the hotel on Dec 28 as J. C. Detweiler of Dayton, O., the dispatches said. Papers and luggage in his room indicated that he had gone to New York from Seattle, Wash., rather than Dayton.

Born in Mansfield, Dec 27, 1886, Mr. Ditwiler attended and graduated from the Mansfield schools. Following his graduation he spent several years as a drug store clerk in Alaska. He later returned to Mansfield and engaged in the men's clothing business with Louis McCormick. The store was operated on North Main street for more than 15 years.

Later he sold his interest and moved to Lexington, Ky., where he represented the Kibler Clothing company. During the past five years he has been representing the Samuel Martin Clothing company of Seattle, Wash., on the west coast.

He is survived by his wife, and one son, John, jr., both of Mansfield, and a sister, Mrs. W. B. Runyan of Dayton. The body will be removed to the Finefrock funeral home pending completion of funeral arrangements.

SUPPORT LEVY REVISION TO HIKE PAYROLLS

Ohio's Congressional Bloc Seeks to Ease Taxes to Stimulate Business.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—New economic and international problems, intensified by uncertainties in the Far East, overshadowed other important matters studied by Ohio members of congress as the regular session opened today.

The state's delegation, almost unanimous in urging swift action to bolster payrolls, looked upon tax revision as a major step needed to achieve that end.

Legislation to ease business taxes was introduced during the special session by Sen. Robert J. Bulkley (D.) and Reps. Dow W. Harter (D.) and Thomas A. Jenkins (R.).

Rep. Robert T. Secrest (D.) forecast budget-balancing moves would be hampered by relief appropriations unless industry found means of providing new jobs. He said the relief budget might approach $2,000,000,000 or more if existing conditions remained unchanged.

Meanwhile, flood control advocates considered the possibility that increased relief and defense appropriations would prevent large expenditures for proposed Ohio river projects.

Seek $60,000,000.

Previously, plans were laid to seek an appropriation of between $60,000,000 and $80,000,000 for flood walls and other works at communities not included in a $24,000,000 program approved recently by President Roosevelt. Those plans will be pushed but members conceded they might have to be revised to meet unexpected developments.

It was observed President Roosevelt did not have the defense problem or an intensified relief problem before him when he agreed several months ago to approve consideration of an extensive flood control program this year.

Secrest and other members of the house flood control committee prepared, however for efforts to get through appropriations at least to permit work on programs for which army engineers already had made surveys.

Chairman Mansfield (D-Texas) of the house rivers and harbors committee said a regional planning program embracing flood control and pollution abatement would be drafted during the next 30 days, probably in line with the Barkley-Vinson bill, passed by the house but amended and referred to a conference committee by the senate. The committee demained in a deadlock as the session started.

Senator Bulkley said he would seek early senate approval of the Lea bill to place natural gas in interstate commerce under federal control. This bill was supported by Rep. Robert Crosser (D) and other Ohioans on the ground it would tend to lower rates on fuel piped into Ohio from neighboring states.

Ohioans generally had few important measures pending. Rep. Dudley White (R) sought action on a resolution to prohibit reciprocal trade agreements with nations owing war debts to this country.

AUTO AND TRUCK DEALERS SHARE IN '37 UPTURN

Sales of New Vehicles Last Lear In County Totaled 3,086, Gain of 276.

Richland county automobile and truck dealers figured in the business upturn during 1937 with sales of new motor vehicles soaring to 3,086, a gain of 276 over the previous year.

Figures compiled by Norman P. Henry, deputy county clerk of courts in charge of motor registrations, show that 2,822 new automobiles were sold in the county last year as against 2,575 in 1936.

The truck business also showed a marked increase, with sales at 264, a gain of 29 over 1936.

March Best Month.

March was the best month in 1937 from the standpoint of automobile sales. Registrations for 296 new cars were recorded that month at the clerk of courts' office. The second highest month was May when sales totaled 330. Monthly sales showed a steady decline however, from May on through to December, and only 99 new automobiles were sold last month.

The peak of the year's truck business was reached in August when 36 registrations for new trucks were filed. In April, 22 were sold to put that month in second place. Sales dropped to 11 in November and 10 last month.

Total registrations of all motor vehicles in the county showed a decided gain over 1936 figures, with 13,656 filed last year as compared with 18,248 in the preceding year.

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO MAKE BEDS CORRECTLY? HERE'S SOME TIPS

Do you (especially the housewives) know how to make a bed correctly so that it will stay made? A question like this directed to women who have been making beds for 20, 30 or 40 years would seem foolish. Yet a few pointers along this line would not go amiss, surveys have indicated.

In order to assist those who are tackling the job for the first time as well as others who have trouble keeping a bed so that it will "stay made," the Balyeat Manufacturing company, Inc., North Main street, manufacturers of Land-O-Nod mattresses, box springs, pillows and studio couches, has prepared a pamphlet along these lines. The pamphlets, available at various furniture stores, points out that while it is important to have a good bed spring and a good mattress for maximum comfort, it is also important to make a bed correctly.

"When made up properly, the sheets and blankets will stay orderly and in place, not only through the entire night, but for many nights," the Balyeat company says.

The method described in the pamphlet has been adopted by hospitals, hotels and domestic science schools. Briefly the suggestions are:

Cover mattress with a good protector.

Place sheets on matress, seams down.

Fold it under the head of the mattress, approximately seven inches, and then under the foot of the mattress the same way.

Miter the corners. To do this, fold sheet firmly at side of mattress straight with the edge of the mattresses.

Fold sheet corners under mattresses.

Drop the sides of the sheet down and tuck under the mattress along both sides. Keep the sheet taut.

Next place top sheet with wide hem even with head of mattress and with seam up.

Place blanket on top about eight inches from head of mattress. Fold the top of the sheet down over the blanket.

Then fold both top sheet and blanket together under foot of mattress and miter the two bottom corners of top sheet and blanket together. Tuck top sheet and blanket under sides of mattress only about 10 inches from foot of bed.

Smooth out neatly; place pillows and then place spread and you have a bed made according to Hoyle.

Hot Water Supply Today Measures Home Comforts

The hot water system is the measure of home comfort and the worst mistake the home owner, builder or architect can make is to "skimp" on this essential.

A good water heater means the prudent avoidance of cheapness when purchasing, which entails endless pattering, discomfort and a waste of gas which would more than pay for a good system. The purchase of a cheap water heating system is a mistake that never ceases to penalize the person who bought it and a grave feature is that it is almost impossible to remedy it except by buying a new water heater.

A Rex Automatic water heater costs a little more than an ordinary water heater. However, that little more in first cost is less per year, if you spread the cost over the years of life of the water heater.

A Rex Automatic water heater will supply a home with an abundance of hot water for all household needs at the turn of a faucet.

Hot water is not a luxury. It is a necessity, it is the lubricant which helps to turn the wheels of housework easily and swiftly.

The Gas company is offering the latest models of Rex Automatic water heaters at reduced price for a short time.

Points Out How Insurance Has Three Functions

Insurance may be said to have three functions although the average person tends to view it in one light only, Mildred D. Perry, manager of the LeRoy Parsons Insurance agency, points out.

"The natural function — that of indemnity, is of our most immediate concern," Mrs. Perry said. "However the assumed function of loss prevention and the economic function of general stabilization are less frequently thought of, but are none the less important."

Few instincts are more fundamental than that which leads men to acquire. Equally deep-rooted is the desire to keep what has been acquired. Man is interested in defending his possessions against the various sources of loss and destruction. The natural function of insurance is to reimburse man for that which has been destroyed.

"The assumed function of insurance is that of loss prevention," Mrs. Perry added. "The immediate reaction to this statement is that it is to the interest of insurance companies to prevent losses. This is true, but there are other benefits arising out of loss prevention.

"Most important is the protection of life. Second is the protection of property, insured or otherwise. Unnecessary loss of employment, of natural resources and of commercial property are other targets of loss prevention.

"The economic function of insurance is as far reaching as it is important. Without insurance the great accumulation of property, the extensive commerce and industry and the general standards which characterize present day conditions would hardly be possible. Through a wide variety of coverages, insurance reaches practically every form of economic activity in the country, exercising an indispensable stabilizing influence on them all."

The LeRoy Parsons agency handles automobile, fire, tornado, plate glass, burglary, and public liability insurance. It is located in the Dickson building on West Third street.

U. S. Leads World In Patents, Over 2 Millions Issued

Evidence of the American's creative genius has been reported by the United States Patent office. The office has just issued its 2,100,000th patent—on a camera that projects pictures as well as takes them.

Although 149 countries and territories in the world grant patents, this nation far outstrips them all in the number of patents granted yearly, the patent office reports. Last year a total of 49,793 were granted.

Established 101 years ago—July 4, 1836—the patent office estimates that approximately one million inventors in the United States have been granted patents. On the work benches of these men have been born the modern day conveniences and comforts of life—the telephone, radio, electric light, automobile, typewriter and countless other appliances for the home, farm, factory and office.

The nation's inventors have come from all walks of life, records of the patent office show.

Thomas A. Edison was the peer of them all, the records show. His contributions to better living standards and more jobs are embodied in 1,101 patents.

HOURLY WAGE ABOVE 1929

NEW YORK—(AP)—The man o.. the street—the average American worker in the manufacturing industries—made more money per hour in 1937 than he did in 1929, but, because of shortened hours of labor, he earned less per week.

As computed by the National Industrial Conference Board, a research organization supported by large corporations, the average hourly wage, for the ten months ended October 31, was 61.7 cents. In 1929 it was 59 cents.

By the week, the 1937 average was $27.52; in 1929 it was $28.55.

News of Industry, Business In Brief

More than 47,000 tons of anthracite coal were shipped in 1936 as compared with $2 million tons in '23, the loss being due to increased competition of oil, coke and bituminous . . . An American steamship company has launched plans for a $25 million trans-Atlantic air service . . . There are now over 28 million passenger cars in the U. S.; in 1896 there were only 6 . . . Exports of aeronautical equipment in the first 10 months of 1937 were valued at $31 million, as compared with $18 million for the same 36 period . . . The three leading credit companies are collecting monthly installments from some 3½ million Americans, averaging a little less than $26 per family.

MORE AIRPLANES

Manufacturers of aircraft—one of the nation's newest industrial fields—delivered 2,060 airplanes valued at more than $71,000,000 during the first eight months of 1937. This was an increase of 69.5 per cent over the same period in 1936. Employment in the industry also showed a major increase.

LOOKS TO VAST FARM MARKET

Electrical Equipment Industry Sees Rural Areas as Big Factor In Future.

The vast farm market for electrical equipment just opening up for development will keep more than 1,000,000 people at work for four and one-half years, leaders in the electrical equipment industry contend.

The American farm offers a market for $5,000,000,000 worth of electrical goods in the near future, and accordingly a $2,-000,000 market for electric light companies, they say. This creates a potential employment rise in the manufacture of household electric appliances destined to be sold to farm families.

Rapid expansion in the entire electric equipment industry has been accompanied by a similar employment rise over 28 years of its existence. The beginning of the whole electrical industry goes back to 1879. By 1929 it was employing just a few hundred less than 329,000 wage earners and almost 76,000 salaried people. Employment in the manufacture of all household electrical appliances up to the present time has increased proportionately with increase in sales.

The manufacture of mechanical refrigerators alone had become such a big factor by 1929 that 16,883 of the employes were engaged in this specific phase of the industry.

In the first seven months of last year, 1,898,656 refrigerator units were sold, a gain of 15.3 per cent over the same period last year. The electric range industry more than justified predictions during this period, selling 258,043 units, showing a unit volume gain of 41.5 per cent over 1936. In one month of this year the sales of electric water heaters showed a 59.3 per cent gain over the same month of the previous year.

Oven Cooking Popular During Winter

By IRENE OBERLIN
Ohio Public Service Economics Demonstrator.

During the winter months when oven cooking is especially acceptable, casserole dishes accompanied with a fresh salad or relishes and your favorite dessert offer a complete meal requiring the minimum of attention. There is a wide variety of combinations, either using fresh or left-over meat, sea food, spaghetti, rice or noodles. You may enjoy trying some of the following recipes.

Scalloped Chicken.

Cook one-half cup rice in one quart chicken stock. Season with salt, pepper, celery salt and minced parsley. Boil two eggs hard, chop fine and add to rice. Chop one onion and three pimentos; fry in two tablespoons of butter and add to rice. Combine two cups of minced chicken with one cup cream sauce. Arrange rice and chicken in alternate layers in a baking dish. Cover the top with buttered crumbs and bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. You may vary this recipe by using mushrooms, celery and noodles.

Molded Rice and Shrimp Sauce.

1 cup rice
¼ cup butter
1 cup top milk
2 eggs
2 tbsp. chopped pimento
2 tbsp. chopped green pepper
Sauce—
3 tbsp. butter
3 tbsp. flour
2 cups milk
¾ cups grated cheese
2 cups shrimp

Cook rice in boiling salted water. Drain well and mix lightly with butter, top milk, eggs, pimento and green pepper. Season well and turn into a well greased mold. Set in a pan of hot water and bake until firm: 350 degrees about 40 minutes.

Prepare the shrimp sauce by melting butter blending in flour

Young America Asks---

Why Continue Old World Standards In This New World?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

NEW WORLD ideas . . . old world blood . . . in how many American homes that combination spells bitter bewilderment, estrangement and tragedy. Perhaps in your own! If so, you'll sympathize with little Rosa, pretty movie usherette, whose Italian mother "wouldn't let her go around like other girls . . . expected her to stay tight in her father's home until she went to her husband's."

"But why?" wailed Rosa. "I'm old enough to work . . . I give her all my wages . . . then why shouldn't I have my freedom? This is New York not Italy!"

So the answers came, by the hundreds. And of them all, none wiser than this from Gilda Sferra of New York City, who gives Rosa not merely friendly advice, but an INSPIRING MISSION, IN WHICH EVERY AMERICAN-BORN CHILD OF FOREIGN PARENTS MAY TAKE PART.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"Instead of feeling angry, Rosa should realize that she has a mission in life—THE MISSION OF INTERPRETING AMERICA TO AN OLD WORLD MOTHER. This good mother is afraid of the customs of a world she does not understand. She is afraid of the fearlessness of American-born youth, with its unchaperoned 'freedom.

"SHE DOES NOT UNDERSTAND THAT THIS FREEDOM IS THE FRUIT OF THOSE DREAMS FOR WHICH THE THIRTEEN ORIGINAL STATES SUFFERED HORRIBLE BLOODSHED . . . THE DREAMS THAT MADE AMERICA.

"Rosa should combine this new world independence with the old world carefulness. Instead of making an issue of her own stand, she should try to win her mother over by showing respect for her mother's opinions. Let her take her mother out into this new life . . . invite her to the movies one night a week . . . treat her to a restaurant dinner now and then . . . bring her American friends home and show pride in her mother's way and her wonderful housekeeping and cooking.

"In this way, her mother would see that America is a fine place—and Rosa will gain, by love, what she now demands with anger."

AND here's another call to arms—A PEACE CRUSADE FOR YOUNG AMERICA, from Willard Fellows of Westwood, Calif.

"Dear Miss Elsie —

"I am just a working fellow of 21, trying to make a start in the country I love. I have no quarrel with life, no wish to become a reformer. But I am thinking a lot about something that is of vital importance to every young American—THE PROSPECT OF ANOTHER WAR INVOLVING THE UNITED STATES.

"I read all this excited talk—these arguments why America must fight—but I wonder how much truth there is in it.

"It is true that if a world war came we would have to sacrifice some foreign trade and this would slow up industry. But what would this small loss be in comparison with the destruction of millions of peoples and homes?

"THE WHOLE WORLD IS CRAZED WITH GREED TODAY. TO STAY OUTSIDE WAR MEANS THE SACRIFICE OF SOME PROFIT AND COMFORT. . . . BUT I AM CONVINCED THAT MY GENERATION WILL GLADLY MAKE THAT SACRIFICE: WILL GLADLY GO WITHOUT LUXURIES IF WE CAN THEREBY KEEP OUR COUNTRY AT PEACE.

"WE DO NOT NEED THE TRADE OF BLOOD AND NATIONS TO KEEP US GOING. SURELY OUR UNITED STATES, SO BOUNTIFUL IN ITS NATURAL RESOURCES SO SUCCESSFUL IN ITS GOVERNMENT, SO ADVANCED IN EDUCATION, CAN BE SELF-SUSTAINING, IF THE REWARD IS PEACE AND HAPPINESS!

"And I for one hereby pledge myself to start a CRUSADE FOR A PEACEFUL AMERICA BY THE YOUTH OF AMERICA!"

A FEW weeks ago we printed a bunch of indignant letters on the recklessness of automobile drivers. Here's Charles Carroll, jr., of Baltimore City college, Baltimore, Md., with several pertinent remarks on the other side of the picture.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"Most older people seem to be of the opinion that the use of automobiles makes us reckless and dangerous, but I am convinced that the opposite is true.

"I have a small, old-model car, bought with money earned after school hours. I drive it every day to and from school. I hold that the ownership of this car has made me, and many of my fellow students in the same position, more careful of human life and more responsible than many adult 'Sunday Drivers.'

"Being responsible for the care and repair of them, we acquire much useful knowledge of machinery, and we are not afraid to get our hands dirty. It is also a matter of pride with us to keep our driving records clear at City college. This is the age of machinery, and the daily use of a car helps us prepare to fit into it."

Navy Preparedness Talk Reflects War Trend

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Army and navy preparedness talk (particularly navy preparedness talk) is increasingly audible in congress as the 1938 session opens.

President Roosevelt has more than a little to do with its audibility.

As an ex-assistant naval secretary, the president takes a particular interest in the subject of Uncle Sam's sea strength. Naturally our navy folk are in heatry sympathy with his suggestions that Uncle Samuel ought to have more of it.

Quite a few of our lawmakers agree with them.

Hence the sentiment in favor of an appropriation of a couple of billions to strengthen us, on land and at sea, but especially afloat. In the air likewise.

Of course our pacifistic organizations are hostile to such a program.

TWO BILLIONS FORESEEN

But just now militarism is in the atmosphere; it would not surprise me to see congress vote the desired couple of billions for armament purposes.

Arguments are exactly like those which we heard during the early 1900's—up to 1914, when the World war started. Many of us do not recall much of what the nation's general complex was then but I am old enough to remember it. It is duplicated now with surprising not to say ominous) fidelity.

Exactly as then, countries today profess to be (and undoubtedly believes themselves to be) arming in order to be powerful enough to remain at peace.

THE OTHER SIDE

To be sure, there were skeptics, back in the 1900 'teens, who reasoned that military power tended to make a people unduly "sassy," and thus liable to get into trouble.

There also were critics who contended that an armament race might become so expensive as to tempt the rivals to fight it out, one squelching the other and thus putting an end to the awful burden of going on with the competition. That, in fact, is what followed.

Other things were involved, but the load of keeping up with the Jones' armament had a deal to do with forcing a show-down.

CREATES WORK?

Then again, the theory is that warship building creates employment.

These theorists reason that leaf raking (boon doggling) is "made work"—therefore of no real value. But a warship, they say, is of actual value.

Now, of what actual value is it?

It has no use in the productive scheme of things. It is not directly commercially useful.

That it is insurance is all anyone can claim for it.

A COMPLEX PROBLEM

At the same time:

Countries which are over-insured because of excessive armaments, get into difficulties, due to over-insurance—

Countries which are under-insured, like China, because of their inadequate facilities to defend themselves, threaten their own peace and the peace of the remainder of the world because of their under-insurance.

Has the remainder of the world got to take care of China?

Or what?

It is an international puzzle.

Coffee after sun-down is generally regarded as a sleep disturber. Yet a recent investigation by experts shows that caffeine in moderate amounts promotes sleep. It was their conviction that only the "psychic fear" causes wakefulness. A woman friend banishes insomnia by brewing a strong cup of coffee in the middle of the night. If one thinks coffee disrupts sleep it will. About a year ago in a Bronxville home a hostess served me what she called imitation coffee. Later she learned the maid had given me the real thing. She did not tell me until next day when she phoned to see how I had slept. Ordinarily a demi-tasse keeps me ga-ga all night, but I had slept like a log.

Damon Runyon had one try before the microphone and called it a day. On the program with him were Gatti-Cazazzi, Gloria Swanson, Belasco and Arthur Brisbane, who was making his first appearance. This was in 1926. Brisbane was to precede Runyon and the latter watched and listened off side. There was something about Brisbane's deadly earnestness that chilled Runyon and two minutes before he was to speak, he slipped out a side door and made the elevator in nothing flat. No broadcasting studio has been honored by him since.

They always write together and their collaborations include several romantic novels, a few mystery books, thin volumes of poems, short plays and many of the finest radio skits of the day. Discord: Overcome by a setting of hiccups during a lull at a sedate Carnegie Hall musical, he arose and in increasing embarrassment rushed up the aisle to an exit, burburping enroute. And was not comforted by a low person in the gallery who yelled: "You flatted that high one, pal!"

Life at 40 in Steel.

In the steel industry, two out of each five employes are more than 40 years old. The figures of the American Iron and Steel Institute reveal there are twice as many steel workers past 40 as there are those of 25 and younger. While it cannot be said life begins at 40 in the steel mills, it can be stated truly that an employe's usefulness is not assumed to end at that age in such rigorous work.

Reports show whenever there is a pickup in the steel mill payrolls, the experienced men are called back first.

Two factors are mentioned as extending years of employment in steel industry. Health of workers has improved along with the general trend upward for the nation. Labor saving machinery helps men to work more years.

The steel industry gives a hint to all employers on the value of old and experienced workers.—Toledo Blade.

Changing Goals.

Do this and that and this,
But, older grown, I find that I

As we live newer days.

What satisfied us yesterday
Now seems remote and strange.
So are we all the creatures of

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS
(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER XXI

"Of course I do! I'm so happy to see you again, darling, and so glad you could come!"

Such a different greeting from the first time!

But Karen's eyes flew past her to the wide room crowded again almost to overflowing with elegantly dressed people. Was Philip here? Why did she want so much to see him? It could mean nothing. But just to see him. . . .

Softly Brenda said, "There's Philip. That's Lilyan with him."

Karen found Philip and Lilyan in the crowd the instant Brenda spoke. And she saw that Lilyan was a small slender girl, that the deep coppery shades in her hair were enhanced by the green velvet frock she was wearing. She looked small and lovely standing beside Philip with her arm through his. Philip. . . the tallest head in the room, the only bronzed head in the room.

It was to have been her night of triumph, Karen thought. She knew that Brenda had meant it to be, remembering her last visit. People wouldn't lift their brows at her tonight or smile derisively. She wasn't an "odd" one. She wasn't a shabby girl with dark hair damp from the rain whom Philip had "picked up." She was an actress and the protegee of Brenda Bond.

But how could she feel triumphant when at the other end of the room Philip was with the girl he was going to marry soon? That other night, horrible as it had been at least he had been with her.

Tony Cannon said. "I haven't had any dinner. I'm starved. Let's look for food." Walking across the room with him, he said, "Brenda said you were a friend of Tommy's, Karen. We were in college together. That is, we were in college until we got kicked out."

* * *

To Craig, Brenda said. "Do you see the heads turning? Karen doesn't know that nearly everybody here has heard about her! I tell everybody I see about her. I'm so proud of her. And she's filled such an empty place."

He smiled. "Perhaps I should be jealous. But since it's Karen, I'm not. She has changed you, Brenda. She's been good for you."

"I'm glad to hear you say that. I love her for the fine actress she is going to be and for the girl she is." She smiled at him. "Let's break up the little clique Philip and Lilyan are in."

* * *

When Tony had appeased a healthy young man's appetite, he and Karen danced. Absent-mindedly she talked to him but her eyes sought Philip again. In such a crowd they might not meet all evening! It would be a wasted evening if he did not speak to her or dance with her. She remembered what Roxanne had said: "You're just making it tough for yourself." But when you are in love, she thought, you let yourself be hurt again and again. . .

Tony grinned. "You would be an actress. One of these gals who puts career above everything. Too bad. You and I might have had a lot of fun."

That dance ended. They danced another. Finally Karen said, "Do you know Lilyan Kane? I'd like to meet her."

"Know her? Of course. Marvelous girl. Philip has always been a lucky cuss. I'm going to be an usher at their wedding."

They found Craig and Brenda and Lilyan and Philip with a group of people. Instantly Karen recognized the thin dark woman who had asked, "Since when has Philip Ashley taken to picking up girls?" That night the woman had worn a red dress. Tonight she was in gold lace.

Tony made the introductions.

The woman in gold lace, Lorna Gill, looked very puzzled.

"But I'm certain I've met you somewhere before, my dear."

Philip suppressed a smile.

Lilyan smiled. "I've been hearing such sweet things about you, Miss Mallare. And you're in Philip's play. How nice!"

"And since you are in my play," Philip said, "I think that gives me the right to dance this dance with you, Karen."

As they danced he said, "Lorna Gill is still trying to remember where she met you. I'd like to tell her, wouldn't you?"

"Brenda says I have the last laugh," Karen said.

"But sometimes last laughs are a little bitter. People hurt you and you want to hurt back. But when the time comes, you don't really want to hurt anybody."

He looked into her eyes and smiled. "You're lovely in your red dress, Karen." So lovely that he had felt a shock at seeing her. Funny, he thought, that when their eyes met, it was as it had been that night in his car when in the brief flame of a cigarette lighter, he had wanted terribly to kiss her. Funny that when their eyes met they seemed to be alone, regardless of where they were or how many people were present.

This evening, as well as all the other evenings since he had discovered he no longer loved Lilyan, was a strain. Even the play, one of the best he had ever written, failed to stimulate him. He was considered a huge success and yet in his private life he had failed miserably. Avoiding a careless marriage, looking for a woman perfect for him, he was in the end marrying a girl he did not love.

Several times he suspected that Lilyan felt his coolness and his conscience had followed him about for days. There had been in their discussions of the wedding many awkward moments for which he blamed himself entirely. And he found her looking at him, hurt and puzzled.

Not only did he consider her but also her father to whom he was devoted. Owen Kane's health had improved almost miraculously and part of his recovery, Philip believed, was due to his enthusiasm at Lilyan's approaching marriage. When he died, Owen Kane would be confident of his daughter's security and Philip found it impossible, despite his own feelings, to rob the gentle old man of that confidence.

Karen felt his remoteness as they danced. Philip could be hers only in her heart and in her dreams. His life belonge to Lilyan. "Mine in my heart," she thought.

They found drinks after the dance.

Lifting his glass, Philip said, "To you, Karen. To the little girl who made good. Do you dislike me as much as ever?"

Dislike him! Did he think that because she had been so furious that night at Tommy's party?

Her throat felt dry but she smiled. "I don't dislike you, Philip. I lost my temper that night at Tommy's. I'm sorry. And I haven't made good—yet. Monday night is the test."

Suddenly she felt a prick of anger and wished she could say, "You wouldn't help me! But now Brenda is my friend and I've a part in your play that you didn't know anything about until you came back! And now you are drinking a toast to me! If it had not been for Brenda, I'd still be living on the money Aunt Hetty left me, or singing in Sam Kasten's floor show. But you wouldn't offer to help me!"

No, she couldn't say it and spoil what might be her last talk with Philip, the unmarried man.

"Sid Kennedy doesn't flatter young people," Philip said. "Few directors do. They're afraid they'll get big heads. But Sid thinks you're pretty marvelous." He smiled. "I agree with him. I think you're pretty marvelous, too."

He agreed with Kennedy now, she thought bitterly.

"I can't drink to myself," Karen said. "So I'll drink to a happy marriage for you and Miss Kane."

"No. To our being friends, Karen."

Again he felt that they were the only two people in the room. Looking into those clear eyes of hers you forgot that many people were talking and dancing. You heard only her voice. You were conscious only of her sweet red mouth—a mouth to be kissed, he thought again.

Brenda and Craig joined them and Karen did not dance with Philip again. Later she saw him and Lilyan leave early.

At the door of Brenda's apartment Tony said, "I'll be in the first row the night the play opens here."

"I'm doing better than that," Craig said. "I'm flying to Baltimore on Monday with Philip. Lilyan isn't going."

In the living room Brenda took off her black velvet coat with the ermine collar.

"You saw them tonight—Lilyan and Philip together. There's nothing I can say to make it easier. We'll be invited to the wedding and of course we must go. I remember quite well buying a new dress for Craig's wedding years and years ago. I always hated that dress. And you'll have to get a new dress for Philip's wedding and you'll always hate that dress, too. I saw Lilyan looking at you when you and Philip were dancing. I couldn't quite make out her expression but I've never seen her look like that before. I hope she wasn't jealous."

"His thoughts were so far away he didn't realize he was with me. I could have been anybody."

PICKS REALTOR

McFarland Names Mansfield to City Planning Board.

In one of his last official acts as head of Mansfield's municipal government, former Mayor Earl A. McFarland appointed William C. Mansfield, president of the Mansfield Real Estate board to the city planning commission.

Mansfield was chosen a few hours before McFarland left office Friday to fill the unexpired term of the late Frank B. Black, Mansfield industrialist, who died a few weeks ago. Mansfield's term expires Dec. 31, 1941.

The term of Vernon Redding, Mansfield architect, another member of the five-man board expired Friday as did McFarland's and Service-Safety Director Philip Wolfe. The latter two were members of the board by virtue of their offices.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Tracy C. Styert who officially becomes service-safety director Jan. 10, will replace McFarland and Wolfe on the commission.

FEED MONKEYS, FARMERS URGE

Help Peanut Crop By Supplying Elephants Too.

ENFIELD, N. C.—(AP)—Monkeys, elephants and small boys can do something for the farm folk of this section. They can eat more peanuts.

Turning from cotton and tobacco to a new "cash" crop, eastern North Carolina farmers built up a gigantic peanut industry. Up, up went the "ground pea" production until it mounted this year to 243,000,000 pounds.

And down, down went the price until it reached a rock bottom of 2.5 cents a pound. The peanut stabilization corporation, through loans to the farmers, is trying to peg the price at the figure.

TANGELOS FRUIT WITH A FUTURE

Cross Between Tangerine and Grapefruit Popular, Grower Says.

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—The tangelo is a cross between tangerine and grapefruit, is the fruit with a future, says C. J. Deakin, Miami citrus grower.

"Anyone having tasted a tree-ripened tangelo," he declares, "with all the tangerine-orange flavor plus the odd but rather fine bitter taste of grapefruit, and also its inner texture, will be forever weaned away from the usual run of fruit consumed previously."

Tangelos have been grown in small quantities but have not been widely marketed.

"WE KNOW TOBACCO BECAUSE WE GROW IT"

What quality of tobacco goes into Camel cigarettes?

This question, of interest to every smoker, is answered by the men who know tobacco from the ground up

IF YOU want to know the quality of the tobaccos that go into various cigarettes, here is one certain source of information—the men who grow tobacco.

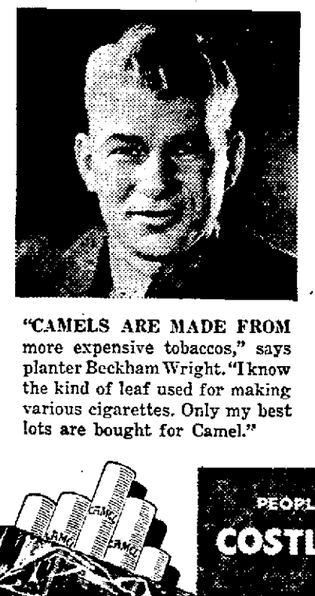
They sell leaf to the buyer who bids most for it. They have seen Camel bid and pay higher prices necessary to get choice piles of leaf. And they report other planters who grow fine tobacco have had the same experience. That's why, as one grower puts it: "Most planters prefer Camels."

Smoke Camels steadily, and you'll realize what finer, more expensive tobaccos mean in smoking.

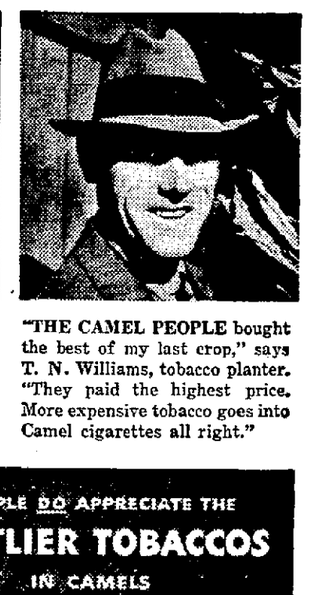
MEET ALEY SKIDMORE, of Winchester, Kentucky. "I'm a tobacco planter," he says as he displays some of his choice leaf. "Those Camel buyers pay for the best—and get it. The choice lots of my last crop brought me a top price, and Camel took all of the fine leaf that I had. I'm a steady Camel smoker myself. Camels are the favorite with men who grow tobacco." Mr. Skidmore and the other planters shown here bring direct evidence that Camels are indeed made from costlier tobaccos. Turn to Camels and see for yourself that those costlier tobaccos do make a real difference.

"I'VE BEEN IN this county for 30 years," says tobacco planter Ollie Hazelwood. "I'll tell you where the best tobacco goes. The choice lots of my crop are almost always bought by the Camel people. Every one on our place smokes Camels too—just like me."

"AN EXTRA GOOD CROP," says Ray Sponcil, who has grown fine tobacco for many years, "and the Camel buyer bought all of my good leaf. I've seen the real fine lots go to the Camel people year after year. I smoke Camels because I know the quality of the tobacco they use."



"CAMELS ARE MADE FROM more expensive tobaccos," says planter Beckham Wright. "I know the kind of leaf used for making various cigarettes. Only my best lots are bought for Camel."



"THE CAMEL PEOPLE bought the best of my last crop," says T. N. Williams, tobacco planter. "They paid the highest price. More expensive tobacco goes into Camel cigarettes all right."

PEOPLE DO APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS

THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

Camel spends millions more for COSTLIER TOBACCOS. They are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.
